GOD'S ERRAND FOR MAN. Dr. Stakely Declares It Is the Spread

Dr. Charles A. Stakely delivered an able rmon at the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church yesterday morning, taking for his text the last verse of the second chapter of Corinthians: "For we are not as many which corrupt the Word of God, but as of sincerity, but as of God, in the sight of God speak we in Christ."

The pastor opened his discourse by saying that he could not come before his hearer with a better theme than that presented by the ministry of Christian teaching. He then gave a clear and concise definition of Christianity, not in its accepted, but its literal sense, describing it as intense and world-wide in its love and its purposes, multiplying its force until it reaches the onfines of the earth. Continuing, he said: "Our intellects want truth, and will no be satisfied with anything else. Christianity takes hold of our minds and amply responds to the longing of the soul."

The minister then contrasted religion and Christianity, and pointed out the esscotial differences and distinctions tween them, saying that religion had its external side. external side.

"Every one of us must have service, and most people like to be employed, and religion offers to us the highest and noblest of all services; first in what it contains, secondly in its authority, thirdly in the motive which controls it, and lastly in its discipline. We should be very careful not to relegate the work for Jesus entirely to the ordered minister. to reegate the work for Jesus cattrefy to the ordained ministry, as each and every one of us can do something for the cause of Christianity in our daily walks of life, either by the medium of conversation or the example we set before our fellow man in our lives."

The climax used by the minister at the conclusion of his sermon carrying out this thought was a particularly happy effort. "God could have written salvation on the leaves of the trees in the forests, he could have had it whispered by the winds or caroled by the birds in their songs, yea, the Belgian minister, which takes place at noon, is the all absorbing topic. The cer-mony will be performed by Cardinal Gib-bons at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Payson, parents of the bride, No. 1439 he could have embroidered it on the car-pet of the earth, or even had the heavenly host proclaim it aloud in the skies, but he has preferred to leave the work to man, creature of his bandiwork, and the duty rests alone with bim."

SPOKE FOR TEMPERANCE.

Mrs. McClellan Brown's Address at Good Templar Hall.

A small but earnest band of temper ance workers assembled last night at Good Templar Hall to participate in a meet ing, held under the auspices of Perservance Lodge of Good Templars. The meeting was an enthusiastic one and resulted in inducing several men to sign the pledge. The call to order was made by A. Kalstrom, grand secretary of the order, who also offered the opening prayer. The flist speaker was Mr. George Giles, of Independent Lodge, and the second was Judge J. J. Weed. These gentlemen took their personal experiences and advised all who had not already done so to join the army of temperance workers. The principal speaker of the evening was Mrs. Martie acception Brown, presi-The principal speaker of the evening was Mrs. Anathe acceptains Brown, presi-dent of Wesleyan College, of Connecticut. She treated her subject at first from a medical point of view, pointing out the iff effect of alcohol on the system. Her next niethod of attack was on the ground that it was economic evil. It was the greatest question of the century, it touched the physical, material, and moral being of the great mass of humankind.
